Used car seats are not always the best deal.

The safest option is to purchase a new car seat.

If you’re looking for a car seat, think again before buying one from a garage sale, secondhand store or thrift shop.

Used car seats are NOT always the best deal because:

- You do not know the history of the car seat. It could have been involved in a car accident, which could compromise important safety features.
- It may be missing parts it needs to function properly.
- It could have been recalled because of a safety issue.
